REACTIVATE! INNOVATORS OF DUTCH ARCHITECTURE

Open lecture
Reactivate! Innovators of Dutch architecture
Indira van't Klooster, editor-in-chief of A10 architecture magazine
Monday, 5 May at 18:00
Museum of Finnish Architecture
Kasarmikatu 24, Helsinki.

Indira van't Klooster, editor of the esteemed Dutch architecture magazine A10, will visit Finland and lecture about the latest developments of European architecture at the Museum of Finnish Architecture in May. Van't Klooster's lecture will give an introduction to the ideas of the rising generation of Dutch architects who identify themselves as active participants in the society within the existing financial context. The new collaborative modes of action topical in the Netherlands include e.g. community architecture, recycling and participatory design. Van't Klooster will examine these new trends against the backdrop of corresponding phenomena in other parts of Europe. The evening will end with an open discussion and the audience is welcomed to share their findings of the Finnish architectural viewpoint.

Indira van't Klooster is the author of the recent book Reactivate! Innovators of Dutch Architecture and a sought-after lecturer in architecture events around the world. She is a guest lecturer at the Academy of Architecture in Amsterdam and collaborates frequently with international architectural juries.

The lecture will be held in English, free of charge and open for anyone interested in contemporary European architecture. The event is organised by Architecture Information Centre Finland and Museum of Finnish Architecture.
